

XM radio should have all the SAME rights as all other broadcasters. Period, simple as that. How does it make any sense, or how is it fair to allow one group of broadcasters more choices in programming than XM? If anything XM should be allowed full spectrum of programming choices since we consumers are directly paying for the service. I personally have switched to XM over my disgust of programming and the amount of commercials played on regular radio. Had they provided a better product, I would have never switched to XM. I also do not like how their pretty much is a monopoly in radio stations owned by a few companies. How in the world was this recent legislation that allowed this to happen supposed to benefit consumers? Just does not make any sense. I fully support XM radio.
